Dover ribbon cutting to feature donated solar array

Clean energy transition projected to save city $550K

A public ribbon cutting scheduled next month will showcase two rooftop solar arrays installed on the Children's Museum of New Hampshire and adjacent Dover Indoor Pool. ReVision Energy donated 103 solar panels for the installation, part of a 318-panel rooftop solar array at the museum and pool which share a common electricity meter.

The ribbon cutting ceremony will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 20 at 11 a.m., at the Children's Museum of New Hampshire, 6 Washington St.

The School Board will hold a special session on Monday, Jan. 28, 2019, beginning at 6 p.m., in Room 306 at the McConnell Center.

Joint Fiscal Committee, Jan. 29, 6:30 p.m.

The Joint Fiscal Committee, which comprises the City Council and School Board, will hold a regular meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 29, 2019, beginning at 6:30 p.m., in Room 305 at the McConnell Center.

The event will also feature the unveiling of a mural created by Seacoast Charter School student Sofia Self. The teenager's art project is intended to spark conversations about the impacts of climate change.

Self's project was organized by the Dover Rising Waters initiative, a group of community volunteers working to implement the Climate Adaptation Master Plan chapter which was adopted last year by the planning board. Self's mural, "The City in the Sea", will be installed on the exterior of the museum building this spring.

The combined 101.7-kilowatt solar array on the museum and pool roofs will generate approximately 120,000 kilowatt-hours of clean electricity per year and offset more than 126,000 pounds of carbon pollution annually for decades to come. The system is expected to provide roughly 30 percent of the combined electricity needs of the two facilities, although that ratio could rise to 50 percent or more once planned LED lighting and other efficiency upgrades take place. The solar array is projected to save approximately $550,000 in electricity costs long-term.

"The City of Dover has been committed to sustainability initiatives for more than two decades, including renewable energy," said Dover City Manager J. Michael Joyal, Jr. "The solar panel array at the children's museum and indoor pool is a great example of the city's pursuit to boost energy efficiency and to realize significant savings in electricity costs over time."

"We are thrilled to be receiving over 100 donated solar panels as a part of this collaborative program," said Children's Museum President Jane Bard. "This project not only aligns with our commitment to being a 'green champion' and educating children about ways they can adopt earth-friendly practices, but every dollar saved from energy costs can be invested in helping us meet our mission of engaging families in hands-on discovery."

The solar energy projects are part of energy efficiency and renewable energy initiatives launched in 2017. At the time, fifteen municipalities participated in the Energize 360 campaign, a grassroots effort aimed at reducing energy use and transitioning to renewable energy, which also included promises by selected vendors ReVision Energy and Yankee Thermal Imaging to donate energy services as part of a social fund to benefit the communities at large.

Energize 360 eventually prompted 200 families to install 251 clean energy and efficiency projects. The projects resulted in an annual net reduction of one million pounds of carbon pollution. Participants also locked in long-term energy cost savings of more than $12 million and upfront discounts in excess of $150,000.

The following events are recorded in "Notable Events in the History of Dover, New Hampshire: From the First Settlement in 1623 to 1865," by George Wadleigh, and several other historical sources.

For more on the history of Dover, settled in 1623 and the oldest permanent settlement in New Hampshire and seventh oldest in the country, visit the Dover Public Library, Locust Street; and the Woodman Museum, Central Avenue. The Public Library also maintains an online collection of historical information, located here.

Jan. 25, 1673 - John Roberts and Jeremie Tebbets had liberty from the selectmen to improve six acres of land in the common lying off the east side of the path that "doeth go unto the watering place on Dover Neck near unto Thomas Perkins' house," which land was to be improved by them seven years for their use, and then to be returned for the town's use, and left plain for feeding grounds.

Jan. 30, 1701 - The Lt. Governor laid before the Assembly a letter from John Bridger, Surveyor of his Majesty's woods, dated at Boston the 21st, in which he states that he had "prepared a great many thousand trees in order to make tar for the use of his Majesty, in the river Piscataqua, particularly on the commons of Dover, on that side next to Suhawannick river, and in the woods next Quamphegan mill, and in the woods by John Wingett's, and on a point below the house of Wm. Henderson, senior; all of which land being common and by act of assembly open to the improvement of any person, he presumed his Majesty might when no injury to the subject - yet some envious, malicious and Unthinking people had felled many of the said trees which he had prepared to the great disappointment of the project he was on, and his Majesty's interests at home as well as here. He therefore makes these unlawful actions known to the Lt. Governor and asks for the punishment of the offenders, which done will prevent his asking redress from other places or persons; otherwise he must seek to put a stop to such proceedings by the best and momentous care he is capable of." This letter the Lt. Governor and Council regarded as a reflection on their loyalty, and in reply "did much admire" the writer's different sentiments concerning the government of the Province from what they were at his first coming hither. And as for the persons complained of they thought it his duty to prosecute such offenders that they may receive condign punishment according to their demerits; promising that nothing should be wanting on their parts to prevent any prejudice to his Majesty's interests therein.

Jan. 27, 1704 - Volunteers are called to "go forth against the Indian enemy." Lt. Samuel Chesley advised the Council of 40 or 50 men as ready to list under his conduct as captain from Dover and Oyster river, that they have upwards of 30 pair of snow shoes and rackets already made, and that their principal want will be for a further supply of snow shoes and some bread.

Jan. 28, 1761 - The Quakers of Dover, by Joseph Austin, Thomas Tuttle and Samuel Austin, for and on behalf of themselves and the rest of their brethren and by order of their monthly meeting held at Cochecho the 18th day of the last month 1760, petitioned the Assembly, setting forth that they were burdened with a tax to hire soldiers into the service, and praying, for reasons assigned, to be relieved therefrom. The Assembly assigned a day for a hearing thereon, and ordered them to cause the chief officer of the Regiment, and the selectmen of the town to be served with a copy of the petition and order thereon, at their own cost and charge, that they might appear and show cause, if any they had, why the prayer should not be granted.

Jan. 26, 1793 - "On Thursday last the gentlemen of this town met at Capt. Shannon's tavern, and celebrated the complete establishment of the Liberty of the French Nation, when after an elegant entertainment and patriotic toasts were given."

RESCHEDULED: New Hampshire author Michael Bruno to speak at the Public Library

Join the Library on Sunday, Jan. 27 at 2 p.m. to hear from New Hampshire author Michael Bruno about his book "Cruising New Hampshire History: A guide to New Hampshire's Roadside Historical Markers". He will have copies of his books available for sale and signing at the event. This event was rescheduled from Jan. 20 due to the weather.

New Hampshire history is uniquely on display along the highways of the Granite State. The New Hampshire roadside historical markers commemorate significant events and individuals from the first settlers arriving in 1623 to notable individuals who helped define what New Hampshire is today. New Hampshire also played a major role in the birth of our nation. From Revolutionary battlefields to individuals of political influence, the Granite State has made an indelible mark on history. This book explores the 255 New Hampshire historical markers that dot the state highways and roads. Each marker is described with its location (to include GPS coordinates), date installed, marker inscription, and expanded historical references of this event/individual. Information may also be provided about other points of interest in the vicinity of the historical marker.

Bruno was born and raised in the Lakes Region of New Hampshire. After serving in the U.S. Army for more than 23 years, he returned to New Hampshire in 2009. Bruno has been a JROTC Army Instructor at White Mountains Regional High School in Whitefield since his military retirement. He attained an Educational Specialist (Ed. S) degree in Curriculum and Instruction from Liberty University in Lynchburg, VA. Bruno resides in the historic mountain community of Bethlehem where he is actively involved in town government.

In 2017, Bruno wrote and sponsored an historical marker commemorating Frances Glessner Lee, who made significant contributions to the study of forensics. Bruno is also a certified New Hampshire Granite State Ambassador. In his spare time, he enjoys hiking in the White Mountains and riding his motorcycle with his wife Kristin along the country roads of New Hampshire.

The program is free and open to the public.

For more information call the Library at 603-516-6050.
